

Editorial Notes

This Journal of Community Development Research (Humanities and Social Sciences) ISSN 1905–7121 and EISSN 2539–5521 is Volume 11, No. 3. Its contents focus on humanities and social sciences with an aim to promote research studies, academic articles and reviewed articles in the field of Linguistics, Humanities, Fine arts, Applied Arts, Social Sciences, Education, Law, Business Administration, Economics, Communication and other related fields.

In order to make the journal's articles well-known and able to transfer the body of knowledge both nationally and internationally, the Editorial Board had a resolution to make the journal bilingual by translating all articles in Thai to English from this issue onwards. Here, the board was honored as the authors had worked with the proofreading team on Thai-English translation until every article was successfully approved.

Regarding the contents in this issue, there are 15 research articles: 11 Thai-English articles and four English articles. All have been through the processes of analysis, research and synthesis gathered from different social contexts such as a marketing extension of agricultural and tourist products in local communities, an educational movement in Thailand and ASEAN countries, a development of teaching methodology or an enhancement of local culture to develop tourism.

The journal has been approved by Thai Journal Citation Index: TCI 1 (1 January 2015 – 31 December 2019) and registered in ASEAN Citation Index (ACI) since 14 November 2017. This achievement would not be possible without the endless support and collaboration by authors and specialists who have transferred insightful knowledge and deep understanding of their fields through articles and revisions.

All articles in Journal of Community Development Research (Humanities and Social Sciences) can be downloaded from the website <http://www.journal.nu.ac.th> under the ThaiJO system of Thai Journal Citation Index. The journal is open to Thai-English and English articles for reviewing processes through the Online Submission only. Any interested can submit an article via <http://www.journal.nu.ac.th> and register with Username and Password by following the instructions on the website.
